Dear Jerry,

Receiving a clipping reporting the bugging trial begins the 15th reminds me that we have not heard from you.

= Do you still plan to come up?

The special help on assembling my new book ends tomorrow. Most of the pressure will be off, temporarily, before this weekend, at least while the index is being completed.

I don't know what Jim's situation is because I haven't spoken to him for several days. He will be under pressures until he gets both appeals filed. I suppose he has finished the Ray draft or is close to that point. The FOIA appeal will result in precedent under the amended law. It will not be an easy one for this and other reasons: we have to be tough, too.

There was what we regard as official perjury in the district court.

You can travel a little lighter now. The weather has changed enough so that only Polar Bear Club members can enjoy swimming in the unheated pool. The leaves have not begun to turn but less solar heat from shortened days and cooler nights lower water temperature.

Best regards,
